Dr. Daniel Bühler

Chief Executive Officer
Röchling Medical

Dr. Daniel Bühler graduated in physics from the Swiss Federal Institute of Technology (ETH) in Zurich/Switzerland and obtained his doctorate in mechanical engineering also from ETH. He holds an Executive MBA degree from the University of Zurich/Stanford University.

From 1999 to 2010, Dr. Daniel Bühler worked for the Swiss medical technology company Sulzer Medica, which was renamed Centerpulse in 2001 and acquired by the US medical technology company Zimmer Orthopedics in 2004. There, the Swiss national served in various roles (Head of Research & Development, Global Head of Marketing and Sales for the Trauma Product Segment, Head of Production US) and was most recently Vice President Quality and Regulatory Affairs for the Europe, Middle East, and Africa (EMEA) region. In 2010, he joined Swedish medical device company Gambro as Vice President of Quality Assurance and Regulatory Affairs for the EMEA region, global QM Systems and Drug Safety.

In 2011, he joined the German medical technology company Biotronik, where he initially assumed the role of Chief Executive Officer and President of the Vascular Interventions division in Switzerland. In 2017, he was appointed to the Executive Board of Biotronik SE & Co. KG in Berlin/Germany. He held this position until he joined Röchling Medical in July 2022. In addition to his role as CEO of Röchling Medical, Bühler was also appointed to the Executive Board of the Röchling Group, where he is responsible for his division.